HAWAIIAN GAZETTE

AN INDEPENDENT JOURNAL, DEVOTED TO HAWAHAN PROGRESS.

This is an action for divorce brought by a hos-band against his wife, alleging that she has at divers times since their marriage committed adultery, and that by force of the Act relating to divorce, approved on the 18th day of July, 1870, he should be obtainable on no other grounds—see sec. 1st of the Act—and likewise sets forth the whole manner of procedure which shall be thereafter followed, and in its 12th sec. enacts that "sections 1323, 1324 and 1325 of the Civil Code, and all Acts and parts of Acts authorizing divorce causes to be heard at Chambers, and all Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent herewith are herebyre-pealed." The object and effect of this Act was to make the obtaining of divorces more difficult than it had previously been.

The first section of the 51st Chap, of the Session Laws of 1874, repealed this last mentioned Act which would have the effect to revive the 1323, 1324 and 1325 sections of the Civil Code, were it not for the 20th section of the Civil Code, which reads as follows :

The repeal of any law shall not be construed to revive any other law which has been repealed unless it be so clearly expressed," and as the enactment of 1874, whilst repealing the law of 1870, did not in express terms re-enact the statutes re-pealed by the law of 1870, it would follow that there is no law to enable divorces to be granted entitled an Act to permit divorced person to marry again, approved May 20th, 1866, be, and tween the contracting parties. Ketchu vs. Clark the same is hereby re-enucted. (See page 3d. of Session Laws of 1866.) Now the law thus sought to be revived by this cuactment was repealed by quite another law than that sought to be repealed, viz; Chap, the 10th, of the Session Laws of 1870, which whilst repealing the Act of the 20th of May, 1866, re-enacts and amends the 1334 section of the Civil Code, so that by this enactment one provision is raised without repealing the other.

But it is argued that the whole of the 50th Chap, of the Session Laws of 1874, is vaid as be-ing contrary to the 77th Article of the Constitu-tion which reads as follows: To avoid improper influences which may re-

"To avoid improper thinsences which has to sult from internixing in one and the same Act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every faw shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in its title." The Court regards this provision of the Con-stitution as mandatory, and the disregarding of it by the Legislature renders any of these enactments in which it may be disregarded, nugatory. Surely a law which in effect prohibits all future divorces, and at the sametime in the same law maks an enactment by which those persons who may have been praviously divorced, may be married again, (or perhaps it may more properly be said, establishes new conditions on which they may be married.) includes more than one object in the same enactment, and therefore by virtue of the authority vested in this Court we do hereby declars the 51st Chapter of the Session Laws of 1874, contrary to the 77th Article of the Constitution and therefore null and void. ELISHA H. ALLEN, Chief Justice of the Sapreme Court. Usas C. Harris, Justice of the Supreme Court.

A. Fraxes Judd,
Justice of the Supreme Court.

W. C. JONES for Libellant. SUPREME COURT-IN EQUITY.

JOSHUA R. WILLIAMS vs. C. T. GULICK. Executor of the Will of HENRY H. SAWYER.

OPINION OF CHIEF JUSTICE ALLEN. This bill of complaint sets forth that on or about the month of January, 1860, the complainant entered into copartnership with the defendant in the business of graziers and cattle dealers. and articles of copartnership were duly executed by the parties.

It appears by the articles that the parties at the time of entering into the copartnership, to wit, on the 23d day of January 1860, each party put into the copartnership stock, a certain num-ber of cattle, but unequal in numbers and the difference was made up by the payment of the sum of $1200, by Sawyer to the complainant, so that their interests were made equal. And further it was mutually agreed that said consolidated stock and their increase should continue until said stock should be finally disposed of by the parties, and that the profits should be equally divided, or if loss should accrue in the business, the same should be paid equally. It was further agreed that the copartnership should continue ten years, unless dissolved by mutual agreement.

The complainant further alleges that the copartnership business and trade was entered upon and was to be covered on will the computation. and was to be carried on until the copartnership expired by its limitation of ten years. And the complainant further alleges that the defendnot has made sale of partnership property, and demands an account of the partnership transac-

The answer of the respondent admits the execution of the articles of copartnership, but avers that in March or April 1864, the plaintiff sold all the cattle on his run at Waimala without con-sulting with defendant, and defendant avers, that said sale put an end to said agreement, and further avers that there has been no partnership dealings between them since that time. And he further avers that complainant, after the aforesaid sale of the cattle left his run at Waimalu and entered upon the business of a sugar plantation, and as he supposed the business was closed he had kept no copartnership accounts.

The evidence in this case is not very satisfactory, as neither party kept any accounts. But it appears by the evidence of Mr. Dowsett that he purchased of the complainant 545 head of cattle, being all the herd in the immediate charge of complainant at Walmalu in 1864. And it ap-pears forther in evidence by Mr. Humphreys, that the respondent in July 1, 1865, made an agreement with him to sell him certain lands, and all the property on the same, consisting of pens, fences, houses, farming utensils, carts, ploughs, and all property on said lands, and also all the interest the respondent had to all cattle, horses, and mules, wherever running branded J.M. V-I or 71; IH, being the same brand of the cattle

Mr. Humphreys further testifies that Sawyer told him that he only sold him an undivided half of the cattle and mules, he adding, "we then came into town and I was introduced to J. R. Williams as being partner, as I was in possession " but he says "I was no partner of Sawyer." He further testifies, "his agreement with Mr. Sawyer was dated July 1, 1865, was to continue till February 1, 1667, and he remained in possession till that time, when he relinquished it, for the agreement was not complied with, by failure to pay according to its terms. This case was commenced on the 6th October. 1873, and sometime afterwards, the responden died, and the case was revived against the ad-ministrator of said respondent's estate. It is especially to be regretted that the case was not tried during the lifetime of respondent. It does not appear that there were any accounts kept by either party, and no evidence of demand for settlement, notwithstanding the large sales made by each party. It appears that the respondent resumed the possession of all the property, which he had agreed to convey to Humphreys, on the 1st of July 1867, and continued in the same till he made sale of the cattle to Mr. E. H. Boyd on the 11th of January 1869. This deed together with the agreement with Hum-preys, were placed on record. It does not appear by the evidence that either party called the other to account, after the sale to Dowsett, or after the agreement to sell to Humphreys, or the actual sale to Mr. Boyd.

After complainant sold to Dowsett, he went into the business of the sugar plantation, and it does not appear by the evidence that he rendered any more personal service to the partnership neither does it appear that he recognized Hum-phreys as a partner. And the main question is, was the partnership dissolved by the acts of the copartners?

After the sale of complainant to Dowsett, and Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islandsbis abandonment of all partnership co-operation, and after the agreement to sell to Humphreys all the partnership property on respondent's land at Kailan, and it not appearing that there was any partnership co-operation by these parties, it was a strong case of implied consent to dissolve the co-partnership.

Mr. Justice story, in his work on partnership, sec. 272, says: "As to dissolution by tacit renunciation or by implication from circumstances, it may arise in various ways, as by the withdrawscree, approved on the 18th day of July, 1870, he is entitled to a divorce, notwithstanding Chapter 51 of the Session Laws of 1874.

The 18th Chap, of the Session Laws of 1870, sets forth very specifically the grounds on which divorces could be obtained, and enacted that they be a set of the partners of the partners in the business, or by his assigning over his share in the partnership, or by his doing any other act utterly inconsistent with the continuing relation of ly inconsistent with the continuing relation o

It is contended by the counsel for the respondent that the sale to Dowsett by complainant and the subsequent sale to Humphreys by respondent, was a final sale of all the partnership property and by the very terms of the co-partner-ship worked a dissolution. But the complain-ant contends that the sale by respondent of all his interest in the cattle and mules, was conditions only, that the contract was executory and depended on the contingency of payment which never happened. Possession was given to Humphreys of the property and he had the full en-joyment of it, and neither of the parties, complainant or respondent, ever exercised any con-trol over the property, and Humphreys continued in possession for the term of two years. The respondent could not impose Humphreys on Wil-liams as a partner, and there was no evidence that this relation existed between them.

A conditional sale of the whole property surrendering possession of the same to a third party, so that there is no further business of the co-partnership to do, amounts to a dissolution under But it is contended that the 51st Chap: of the articles, as well as by the law which was the transfer the Co-partnership relation. It was the transfer of all the respondent's interest in the partnership of all the respondent's interest in the partnership. 6 Johns R, 144. Murray vs. Bagut, 14 Johns R, 318.. Menguard vs. N. Y. Man. Co., 17 Johns

The interest of a partner is liable for his separate debts and his creditors can take by assignment, or on execution, but they are entitled to it, without the risk of being partners, neither are the solvent partners obliged to continue the partnership for the very good reason that the property of the insolvent partner is taken out of the concern. Respondent had nothing to do as partner at Koolan, neither had Williams at Waimalu. The property being sold, there was nothing further for the partners to do but to settle the business and divide the profits or losses as provided by the articles, and it is to be regretted that they did not make a settlement at that time. A partner cannot by the assignment of his interest, introduce his assignee into the co-partner

It is well settled in Eugland that an Act of Bankroptcy is a dissolution of partnership, this is by reason of the assignment, which severs the interest in the bankrupt by operation of law. Camp, 448, 5 Vesey jr., 295.

The partner who made a sale of his interest in a co-partnership would be liable in damages undoubtedly for non-fulfillment of his co-partnership agreement.

I am of opinion that the co-partnership of Williams and Sawyer was dissolved by the act of Williams in the sale of all the cattle under his charge at Waimalu, and his embarking in other business, when taken in connection with the sale of all the partnership property at Koolau by Saw-yer on the first day of July, 1865, and as this bill was not brought within six years from that date my judgment is that the suit is barred by the Statute of Limitations. Bill dismissed, each party to pay his own costs.
